BATLIWALLA'S AGUE PILLS OR MIXTURE.

GUARANTEED TO CURE OR MONEY BACK.

BATLIWALLA'S AGUE PILLS or MIXTURE drives all the poisonous Malarial germs out of the body. It is truly wonderful that this dread disease can be cured so readily, but it can and that is all you need to think about. If you buy a bottle of BATLIWALLA'S AGUE PILLS or MIXTURE and if it does not cure your Intermittent Malarious, Intermittent or a Bilious Fever and chill form of Plague, let me know at once and I will refund your money. I want no man's money unless I am satisfied that Batliwalla's remedies has given him or her Cure for money's worth. Can you blame me for being enthusiastic about the efficacy of Batliwalla's Remedies? I have been selling them for years all over this country and in other countries. Besides this my 3 Mixtures has attained such a high reputation in the Bombay Presidency's market that if I agree to take only one rupee per dozen less than the market rate, I can sell one thousand dozens of it in one day only. I offer a challenge to the whole world any one who can disprove this statement.

BOMBAY GAZETTE EXCHANGE STERLING TABLE.

PRICE Rs. 2

THE Bombay Gazette STERLING EXCHANGE TABLE is a small neatly bound BOOK covering all RATES in 32nds, both Sterling into Rupees and Rupees into Sterling, from 1s. 3 3-4d to 1s. 4 29/32d. The Book will, it is found, supply a long-felt want, as since the stoppage of the free coinage of silver, rates have varied well within those given both for Demand and six m. the Currency Bills, and the extensive and expensive tables in general use are now no longer required. The form adopted will also greatly facilitate the conversion of broken amounts.

"The cheapest, best, and most convenient.—Pice Press notices.

"MAX" IN "CAPITAL" SAYS:—"To anyone in want of a most handy Rate of Exchange Tables, I would recommend the little Volume published by The Bombay Gazette. Its range is from 1s. 3 3-4d. to 1s. 4 29/32d. advancing on the sterling side by 1/32nd pence throughout, and on the rupee side from 1 rupee up to Rs. 1,000,000. The calculations are carried out to two decimal places, the lowest coins. The size of the book is 8 1-2in. by 5 1-2 in. and contains [illegible] printed and well got up in every way. EADE'S

GOUT and RHEUMATIC PILLS.

THE CURE FOR

GOUT AND RHEUMATISM.

THE never-failing effects of EADE'S GOUT and RHEUMATIC PILLS in curing those distressingly painful diseases, have secured to them a celebrity unequalled by any medicine of past or present times. They not only give relief in a few hours where the patient has been driven almost to madness by the horrible sufferings and tortures of this disease, but restore to perfect health in an incredibly short space of time—in most cases giving relief from the intolerable pain in from one to two hours. One bottle will frequently carry off the attack in two or three days, even when the patient has kept his bed for as many weeks. In constitutional cases, besides applying the Ointment to the affected parts, from one to two pills are to be taken every night on going to bed, and a dose of the Liquid Extract every morning fasting. The proprietors, from many years' experience in the treatment of this disease, feel confident that the following directions fully warrants the assurance that no person subject to these dreadful attacks, if they will carefully follow them, will ever afterwards be without them.

A LADY WAR CORRESPONDENT

Wins Distinction—

Among the many brilliant and distinguished women of to-day, few have had a more interesting and hazardous career than Lady Briggs. As correspondent of the Morning Post in the Soudan Campaign and the Boer War, her vigorous descriptive accounts speedily compelled wide-spread attention. Lady Briggs had already achieved phenomenal distinction when in 1897 she daringly edited "Naval Administrations—1827 to 1892," the great work of her late husband, Sir John H. Briggs, who for 65 years was chief clerk and Reader to the Lords of the Admiralty. But it was reserved until 1901 for Lady Briggs to attain a unique distinction for her sex, by the publication of her remarkable book 'The Staff Work of the Anglo-Boer War." Her astonishing activities and literary labours induced an intellectual weariness which expressed itself in severe headaches and neuralgia, and in the letter which follows, Lady Briggs conveys her gratitude for the effective manner in which Phosferine arrested all her Nerve Disorders and restored and reinforced her Nervous System.

And Speaks for Herself.

Lady E. C. Briggs, 5, Charles St., St. James' Square, London, S.W., writes:—"I have tried Phosferine and have much pleasure in bearing testimony to its efficacy as a brain and nerve tonic, and its powerful effects as a restorative, as well as in cases of neuralgia and headache resulting from brain-fag."—February 23, 1905.

The Royal Example.

Phosferine is used by the Royal Families of Europe which, in plain language means that every user of Phosferine knows and feels that the Tonic is commended by the greatest living Physicians.

THE BATTLE OF PORT ARTHUR

Is not to be compared with the Great Fight that Humanity is waging against Disease.

Vitality lost through youthful indiscretion, old age and long residence in tropical climates is restored permanently, while youthful vigour is imparted to the wasted constitution by our Curative treatment.

The most Rational, Scientific and up-to-date treatment can be obtained only from Macdonald, Joseph and Co. Specialists in Nervous diseases. One of the greatest errors that people fall into is to believe that a single remedy can be prepared to cure all diseases brought on by a variety of causes and varying also according to individual constitution. Is such a thing possible? We ask. Certainly not. This fact is recognised by all medical men who very properly veto patent medicines. Our chief objects are to aid the suffering and place the fruits of our skill and experience at their disposal with as little cost to them as possible.

Our Board of Specialists is composed of men of wide fame in their profession and when they undertake a case they guarantee a cure, no matter how far advanced the disease may be.

Every case is treated with the strictest confidence.

A WORD TO SUFFERERS.

Do not despair even if your case has been pronounced as hopeless by your Medical Attendant. But apply without delay for a copy of our Confidential Consultation Sheet, and we guarantee to cure you if you faithfully carry out our instructions.

Can be had only from—

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR KIDNEYS. THEY DRIVE THE POISONS OUT OF YOUR BODY.

CONSIDER what it means to neglect the kidneys. They are the great blood filters of the body. All the blood passes through them once every three minutes, day and night, to be filtered and purified. Thus the kidneys remove about 500 grains of impure matter every 24 hours.

So the kidneys are working night and day to keep you in health. But when they get sick they do not do this filtering process properly, and some of the uric acid and waste matters stay in the system. These impurities are the cause of most diseases.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are made to heal and help the kidneys in their great work. They take out the uric acid (the acid that causes rheumatism, gravel, gout, heart disease, sciatica and neuralgia); they take out the water that causes the dropsical swellings; they relieve backaches, correct the flow from the kidneys, and remedy such complaints as lumbago, pain in the loins, urinary and bladder troubles.

For 72 years Doan's Backache Kidney Pills have been in use, and they are the first medicine in the world for kidney and bladder troubles. You may try this great kidney medicine free, by writing to FOSTER-McCLELLAN Co., 8, Wells-street, Oxford-street, London, W., England, for a free sample box, and mentioning this paper. You can buy the medicine from all chemists.

BOMBAY, JUNE

WEATHER.

SINCE we last wrote there has been a marked change in the weather conditions and the monsoon may fairly claim to have set in. The area over which rain has fallen is considerable, comprising the Berars, Central Provinces, Sholapur district, Hyderabad district, Khandeish, Ahmednagar and the Broach district. The ground has been prepared for sowing, and in some places sowing has actually commenced. For the present the anxiety felt has been alleviated, and with a good rainfall later on Crop prospects generally should be encouraging.

COTTON.

At the beginning of the week both the New York and Liverpool Markets were steady and the fluctuations slight, but during the last three days there has been something approaching a panic amongst the New York bears and the struggle to cover has resulted in a rapid advance in prices, Spot Cotton in New York having gained 70 points on the closing price last week, and July futures 53 points. Liverpool has advanced 41 points in spot and 31 points in futures during the same time. The rise is reported to be due to bad crop reports; and the market being ruled by speculators the bulls have seized the opportunity and fairly frightened the bears into helping them in their campaign. But such a violent advance, unless backed by real and permanent damage to the crop, should certainly be followed by a re-action.

The local market was steady at the commencement of the week, but prices have since risen Rs. 5 to Rs. 6 in ready cotton and contracts for this month's delivery. Exporters, particularly to Japan, have been good buyers and a considerable business has been put through in nearly all styles with the exception of Dholleras, which are more or less neglected. Mills have been buying quietly but steadily and the turn-over, all round, has been fairly large.

The "Satta" market for New Crop has fluctuated considerably, the lowest price touched for Good M. G. Broach 15th to 25th March delivery being Rs. 236, and the highest Rs. 245. Fully good Bengals for 15th to 25th January delivery have ruled between Rs. 186 and Rs. 195. The business done has been moderate, as the rapid rise in rates in America made sellers chary of operating, though it is reported that European Export houses have sold during the last two days.

During the week mills have been enquiring for Fine M. G. Bengals for December and January delivery, and a fair business has been done at Rs. 208 to Rs. 213 for December and Rs. 205 to Rs. 209 for January, both mill terms.

CATHOLIC EDUCATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR,—Referring to a letter in your to-day's issue by "A friend of Education" in which he quotes that there is not a single convent for girls or schools for boys in Salsette and Bassein. I may be permitted to point out that at Bassein there are two Schools, one Government school, and the other Thomas Baptista's A. V. School, Papdi; but none of these are supported by the Bishop of Damaun. His Grace should open his purse now in order to promote education among the Catholics who are still 100 years behind times as regards education. The writer also wishes to sacrifice priests' income which is quite unfair, but in lieu of this let his Grace appoint the new ordained priests who have fair knowledge of English in charge of every parish and open a Parish School and the want felt for many years will be remedied. His Grace should also ask back the Revd. F. Marshall Baptista, the Vicar of Culvem, a zealous and hard working priest, whose services have been lent to the Archdiocese of Bombay, to take charge of one of the important vicariates.—Yours, etc.,

THE PLAGUE HOSPITAL IN NORTH-BROOK GARDENS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

SIR—One notices with no little satisfaction the levelling down of the Grant Road hospital for infectious diseases facing the Northbrook Gardens.

If the plague hospital situated in the very heart of the Northbrook Gardens made for the poor people living in the neighbourhood, shares a similar fate what an untold blessing it would be for these people for whom, it seems the Gardens were specially made. The Plague hospital in the Grant Road Gardens, established by that philanthropic cit

THE TURF AND ITS CHIEF CHARACTERISTICS.

TO meet the demand for high class articles on the Turf, made by the general public as apart from the racing-man, we have arranged for a series of anecdotal and informing contributions. These are concerned with anecdote and reminiscence rather than with racing form, and emphatically deprecate that type of gambling which has attached itself to the noblest of sports. The following programme shows the open, healthy nature of the series, and the authors names are guarantees of thoroughly popular and high-class treatment.

RUSSIA'S PERILOUS STATE.

THE MUTINY SPREADS TO LIBAU.

ODESSA BOMBARDED.

RAILWAY STATION AND SHIPS BURNED.

Warships Despatched.

A MILLION ROUBLES DAMAGE.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, JUNE 29.

The news that all the officers of the Kniaz Potemkin, except three, have been murdered is confirmed.

The sailors took a prominent part in yesterday's street fighting.

A battleship and a cruiser have left Sevastopol in all haste for Odessa.

Before the burning of the warehouses, the mob carried off goods, the loss to the owners being a million roubles.

The city is now enveloped in smoke. The shops are shut and traffic suspended.

Troops hold the main streets. The hospitals are overflowing and doctors insufficient. Many of the inhabitants are leaving.

There were several instances, yesterday, where the troops, who were mostly Reservists, refused to fire on the mob.

LONDON, JUNE 30.

The battleship Kniaz Potemkin started bombarding Odessa at 11-30 yesterday evening.

The Russian transport Vecha has joined the mutineers.

The naval seamen at Libau have mutinied and have wrecked the barracks.

The Artillery and the Cossacks were called out and fighting ensued.

There are no further details, but a naval battle is expected at Odessa.

Four battleships, one cruiser and several torpedo-boats left Sevastopol for Odessa yesterday evening under the Command of Admiral Kruger in order to sink the battleship Kniaz Potemkin if she refuses to surrender, and then to assist in restoring order in the town.

The Central Railway station at Odessa has been burned.

Among the burnt ships in the Odessa harbour is included the Volunteer ship Saratoff.

During the funeral yesterday evening of the sailor who was shot for presenting a petition from the crew of the Kniaz Potemkin for better food, there was a great demonstration, but no disorder.

No police or troops lined the route of the funeral procession.

LATER.

Nine vessels were burned at Odessa yesterday by the mutineers. It is believed that none of them are British.

Machine guns were used in the streets against the rioters.

Two more regiments have arrived in the city.

THE TEREK STILL ACTIVE.

Danish Steamer Sunk.

LONDON, JUNE 29.

The Russian cruiser Terek sank the Danish steamer Princesse Marie on the 22nd inst., alleging she was carrying contraband. The crew have arrived at Batavia.

The Terek stopped the British collier Aparima on the 27th, but allowed her to proceed.

and traditions of the Army. The Committee do not consider that at this stage they should define more explicitly the measure of responsibility to be attached to all the officers (and their subordinates) whose names were connected with the director of supplies' office at Pretoria in the year following the close of the war.

The" put this limitation upon themselves only because there still remain unexamined by them the cases of further contracts with Meyer, Wilson, and Worthington by other persons, which took place in 1902-1903. These cases have not been specially referred to the Committee. Further search on the lines suggested may discover instances of connivance or ineptitude and even enable investigation to reach that hitherto impenetrable background already mentioned, where some deeper calculator has his abode. Finally, the Committee desire to draw attention to the fact that they are not a disciplinary body, nor have they been constituted to receive evidence upon oath. They have had to conduct their inquiries subject to numerous difficulties and several limitations, and time has not been allowed them in which to extend their investigations into the great body of the transactions lying outside the cases specified in the second paragraph of their reference. They have only been able to touch the fringe of that region. The case of the Imperial Cold Storage Company, in which Meyer was a prominent figure, and Col. Morgan was closely identified, the fuller investigation into the character of the companies which had to be created for the purchase of our supplies, the fact that the members of these companies or firms could seek safety in bankruptcy whenever it suited their designs to do so, the solution to problems suggested by passing reference to some shadowy personality occasionally showing in the background of these transactions; these and many other subjects have had to be passed by with scanty and insufficient notice.

The Committee feel that before these grave questions can be set at rest evidence on oath will have to be taken and the difficulties of place and distance removed, or lessened by the original scene of the trouble being made also the scene of its investigation. And there is another point perhaps the strongest of all, to which the Committee must refer. It is hardly the taxpayers of this country to continue to be the sport of the many questionable contractors who are so ready to follow their several avocations in the wake of a war as they are also willing to be its pioneers!

Should the face of such transactions as the Committee have dealt with, a note of irony seems to run through the clauses in the War Office contract forms, which relate at length the pains and penalties visited upon the contractor who has been found practising the acts of corruption or attempting collusive operations with some military underling in the course of an Army contract. One is disposed to ask—Are the civil offences of the latter of so much more reprehensible than the cautionary precision in the Army from, ever brought to book in the substance? Where does their punishment come in? For it seems to the Committee that these or the nebulous civilian personalities behind them, are the chief offenders against the nation to which by birth or naturalisation they belong. Some clumsy pantaloon in puttees—even some agile harlequin in a helmet—may occasionally be caught, but the oldest member of the Committee has informed his colleagues that in the course of many years' experience he can only call to mind one case where the civil practitioner in a military scandal has been brought to justice, and in that solitary instance the offender, when released from a period of 15th months' incarceration was received by his fellow-townsmen with many manifestations of civic triumph."

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

A vivid flash of lightning accompanied by a heavy bolt of thunder passed over Bombay yesterday morning and while it caused no serious damage to property, it took one life. It appears that four men, all Hindu bullock-cart drivers, were seated in a corrugated iron roofed shed at Haines Road, when the lightning flashed forth with a peal of thunder from the heavens, rendering all of them unconscious. Three of them recovered but the fourth died. The deceased's body was not charred nor were there any visible marks of injury on it. It was evident that death was due to shock caused by lightning.

THE WEATHER AT SEA.

The P and O S N Co's mail steamer Peninsular, 3920 tons, Captain W B Palmer, R.N.R., which arrived in harbour yesterday from Aden, reports having experienced strong S W monsoon.

Rheumatism

If your muscles are sore, bones ache, joints feel stiff, and, if pains dart through your body, it is probably rheumatism. Purify your blood, get out all the rheumatism poison—no need of your suffering in this way.

We have the following letter from Mr. R. Kowald, of Blanchm, So. Australia. Mr. Kowald also sends his photograph.

"I suffered greatly with rheumatism, which laid me up for a long time. I tried a great many medicines, but they were of little or no use. A friend who had taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla induced me to try it. I thought it would be just like all the other medicines, but, once was a great and pleasant surprise to me. Before taking the bottle I could not walk. The swelling began to go down, and I soon began to leave my bed, and I felt better in every way. After taking three bottles I was completely cured. While I was taking the Sarsaparilla I also took Ayer's Pills to keep my bowels in a good condition."

THE ROYAL WEDDING AT WINDSOR.

A BRILLIANT CEREMONY.

In ideal weather, and with every circumstance of splendour and dignity, the marriage took place at St. George's Chapel Windsor, on June 15 of Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden and Norway and Princess Margaret of Connaught.

All Windsor was in the streets dressed in its best to mark its loyal rejoicings. Amid the pealing of bells and the cheers of the crowds the guests gradually assembled. By 11 o'clock the special train had brought the invited guests from London; at 10 minutes past 12 the bridegroom arrived at St. George's Chapel, followed 15 minutes later by the King and Queen, the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden, the Khedive of Egypt, and the long and distinguished company of those in attendance. At half-past 12 the bride, supported by the Duke of Connaught, moved up the nave, followed by her bridesmaids. The ceremony was concluded after one o'clock.

The chapel was without floral decorations, for the great throng of expected guests made every portion of space important. From 11 o'clock, the hour at which the London guests arrived, the nave was filled with varied uniforms, and the magnificent dresses of ladies who passed up the purple carpets to their seats in the choir. Lady Maud Warrender, in pink, was amongst the first of the Royal English matrons. German, and Russian Ambassadors. The beautiful Countess of Cromartie, in yellow, was followed by Lady Lascelles, in white, The Duchess of Roxburghe, in an emerald tiara, with a green train, and Lady Salisbury, Lady Iveagh in pink the Dowager Duchess of Manchester in violet, and Lady Derby in grey. The Duchess of Marlborough, with her neck loaded with splendid pearls, came with Lady Evelyn Ward, whose pink satin was covered with Irish lace. Lady Dudley in clinging white chiffon looked magnificent. The Duchess of Westminster, who came with Lady Grosvenor, was in mauve.

After the procession of clergy passed in under the arch of the screen, above which the organ thundered a triumphal march. Shortly after they had taken their place at the altered the bridegroom arrived in blue uniform attended by his gentlemen, they stood to the right of the altar steps. The sun was shining brilliantly through the west window when the royal procession passed into the nave, the rays gleaming on the gold lace and diamonds in glittering splendour. The Queen was in a beautiful gown of sapphire colour, and wore a round crown of diamonds. Behind their Majesties were the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden, and a long train, amongst whom was the Khedive who led the blind Landgrave of Hesse by the arm.

After the royal party had taken their places about the altar the bride arrived. Princess Margaret looked well in a charming dress of lace over satin. Her veil was thrown back. She carried a great bouquet of lilies in her hand. Behind her the royal bridesmaids walked, wearing hats with crowns of marguerites and bouquets of the same simple flowers.

The scene was one of great splendour. Beneath the flags of the Garter Knights the stalls were crowded by the royal guests in every imaginable shade of dress and uniform. Here and there a ray of sunlight brought sparkles from the diamonds. About the altar were gathered the royal relatives of the bride and bridegroom in a half circle, where stood the clergy in white and scarlet.

In the stalls foreign diplomats and English politicians faced each other. Lord Halsbury, Lord Ashbourne, Mr. Balfour, and Lord Lansdowne formed a little group, opposed to which were the Austrian, Belgian, Russian, and German Ambassadors in the remaining stalls sat the peers in order of precedence.

THE CEREMONY.

The Archbishop of Canterbury performed the service, assisted by the Bishop of Oxford, The Duke of Connaught gave his daughter away.

Princess Gustavus made his responses in a loud, clear voice in which there was scarcely a trace of foreign accent discoverable.

The Archbishop of Canterbury's address to the newly married pair was as follows:—

It is a wonderful thing for any two people to find themselves even for a few hours the subject of the thoughts and prayers and hopes of countless thousands. Such is at this moment your happiness, your responsibility your high trust, for it is an enabling trust that God has upon those who occupy central places in the world's life. And when at an hour like this two kindred nations in sober thoughtfulness and in an eagar unity of expectation and hope, spend from their very hearts a large and loyal God-speed the answer of God's wonderful mercy may be given in the peace and welfare of those nations through many years to come. "Lift up your hearts, we lift them up unto the Lord." The ties are manifold which knit England and Sweden each to each, and when an English princess whom her country has learned to love, fares forth to a new home life in the bright northern City of Islands, carrying with her from an honoured English name traditions of whatsoever is pure and lovely and of good report, a rich seed plot is planted wherein all that is best can grow. We expect high things, and, in quiet confidence, we wish you joy. Over 300 years ago the King of England and the Companions of the Order added the great name of Gustavus Adolphus to the roll of those whose banners overhang these stalls, and in the words of the Swedish King, the honour was welcomed as "a most express pledge of affection and a strengthening of friendship by yet closer bonds." To-day we add the closest bond of all, for as Christian folk we meet to ask the blessing of our Lord upon a wedlock rich in the earnest of a manifold and constant joy. Be it yours day by day in the privileges of that mutual confidence and mutual and mutual sacrifice which Christian wedlock teaches and implies, to live for the people's good, and, so living, to realise the worth and happiness of life. Upon such an endeavour, wrought out in the faith and fear of God through Jesus Christ, we have a right to ask and to expect the abiding blessing of Him from Whom every family in heaven and earth is named.

Mendelssohn's Wedding March thundered out, as the procession once more descended into the nave and passed into the sunshine without

THE LUNCHEON.

After the ceremony the bridegroom drove back to the Castle in the first royal carriage. They had a magnificent reception en route.

The King and Queen and the members of royalty joined the bride and bridegroom at luncheon. For the other guests luncheon was provided in St. George's Hall.

After luncheon a special train conveyed many of the distinguished guests back to town.

The young couple left the Castle at 10 minutes past for their honeymoon, and had a splendid sendoff from their Majesties and the royal guests. The Duke of Connaught and Prince Arthur accompanied them to the station. At the special request of the Mayor, the long route through the town was taken, and the people thus got an excellent view. The newly wedded pair were lustily cheered. Escorted by Life Guards, they reached Windsor Station at 20 minutes past four, and left immediately for Saighton, Cheshire, en route to Ireland.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN.

THE GREAT NAVAL FIGHT.

EXPLANATIONS BY ADMIRALS.

St. Petersburg, June 10.

Rear Admiral Enkvist has sent the following telegraphic report to the Emperor:—

"Manila, June 5.—The battle began on May 27 between Tsu-shima Islands. The sky was clear, and there was a brisk south wind blowing, but the horizon was very misty. A Japanese squadron was sighted to the north at 1-45 p.m. and engaged us. The enemy's tactics were directed to preventing us from getting through to Vladivostock.

"Every time our squadron attempted to steer northwards, the Japanese, thanks to their superior speed, headed off our columns, their battle-ships concentrating their fire on our leading battle-ship. The Japanese armoured cruisers, nine in number, and the battle-ship Chinyen manœuvred independently of the rest of their fleet, trying to take our battleships between two fires and during the entire action our cruisers had to operate against these vessels, which placed our transports in a position of great difficulty.

"Fifty minutes after the beginning of the action the Oslyabya sank, and the Borodino was rendered helpless. Shortly afterwards the flagship Kniaz Suvaroff was on fire and with her masts and funnels gone was reduced to the same condition. The squadron then turned to protect the Kniaz Suvaroff, and the Borodino resumed her place in the line which was headed at the time by the Alexander III.

"In the second engagement the Ural sank, the crew being saved by the transport Anadyr and the steamer Sver. The tactics adopted by the enemy obliged our squadron to manœuvre in a circle round the transports and torpedo-boats, while the Japanese moved in an exterior circle round us. Owing to the low speed of our ships it was difficult to escape from this position. Just before sunset, however, our squadron resumed its northerly course. At that moment a torpedo boat near the Kniaz Suvaroff signalled: The Admiral transfers the command to Admiral Nebogatoff.

The Alexander III. left the line in a badly damaged condition. The Borodino was left at the head of the line, and the enemy concentrated their fire upon her. At sunset the Borodino fired her last shot and sank.

Perceiving a number of Japanese torpedo-boats ahead our squadron turned south. At this stage the Kniaz Suvaroff, the Borodino, the Oslyabya, the Kamchatka, the Ural, and the Russ had been lost. My cruisers engaging the Japanese cruisers suffered from the enemy's heavy calibre projectiles.

At night the enemy began torpedo attacks. I cannot state the results of these operations, as we were unable to distinguish the Russian vessels from the Japanese. Several times I attempted to escape to the north, but repeated attacks compelled me to turn south. On the morning of the 28th, not knowing the whereabouts of our squadron, and exposed to the danger of an attack from the entire Japanese fleet, with my cruisers badly damaged and short of coal, I decided to make for Manilla.

The conduct of the crews of my vessels was beyond praise.—Reuter.

The Minister of Marine has received the following telegram from Rear-Admiral Reitzenstein, dated Shanghai June 6:—

The Commander of the torpedo-boat Bedry reports that after one o'clock on the afternoon of May 27 the battle began. About seven o'clock in the evening the torpedo boat Bulny went alongside the Kniaz Suvaroff, and received on board Admiral Rojdestvensky, who was wounded on the head. The Staff hoisted the signal: Wounded Admiral on board.

The squadron proceeded north in the following order:—

Right Column Imperator Nicolai Lord, Borodino, Imperator Alexander III. General Admiral Apraksin, Admiral Senlavin, Admiral Ushakoff, Sissoy Veliky, Navarin, Admiral Nakhimoff.

The transports and torpedo-boats were between the columns.

"At half-past seven the cruisers steamed to port. Some time afterwards the Dmitri, Donskoy, Vladimir Monomach, Izumrud, Almaz, and Svetlana turned northwards, and the Aurora, Oleg, and Jemchug continued south. The torpedo-boats Bodry and Blestiashty were steaming at ten knots.

Shortly after one o'clock in the morning they passed Tsu-shima. At five o'clock in the morning the Blestiashty sank. The Bodry saved four officers and 75 men, who had to leave the torpedo boat. The Bodry continued south, but was unable to catch up the cruisers. She burns all her coal and wood and then lay helpless. The British steamer Kowsling towed her to Shanghai.

According to officers and men of the Bodry, Blestiashty, and Oslyabya the Japanese lost two battle-ships, one of the Asahi, and the other of the Shikishima type, one armoured cruiser, and three cruisers.

"The Chinese requested the Bodry to leave within 24 hours, but admiral Kamimura's squadron arrived off Saddle Islands in the evening. The Bodry had but little chance of escaping, and had not enough coal to cross the ocean. Her departure would have caused the loss of the torpedo-boat, so I decided to let her remain here. The wounded have been taken to our hospital."

THE BATTLE OF TSU-SHIMA.

RUSSIAN OFFICIAL REPORT.

St. Petersburg June 12.

The following official report dated Saturday, has been received here from General Linievich:—

According to the written reports of the commanders of the cruiser Almaz and the torpedo boats Grozny and Bravy, to the oral report of Aide-de-Camp Chagin, and to the accounts of the officers of the Oslyabya, the main features of the naval battle in the Tsu-shima Straits were as follows:—

"On the morning of May 27 the Russian fleet approached the eastern Straits of Korea in two columns—on the left the battleships and on the right the cruisers, with the transports between them. At seven o'clock in the morning the cruiser Izdumini was sighted to starboard, and at eleven o'clock the cruisers Kasagi, Nitaka, Chitose, and Tsu-shima hove in sight to port. The Vladimir Monomach, obeying a signal, steamed to starboard of the transports and opened fire on the Izumi, which replied and then disappeared in the fog.

"At 11-20 a.m. our second battleship division opened fire on the Japanese cruisers. Shots were seen to strike the Nitaka or Tsu-shima. The Japanese returned the fire, and then disappeared to port in the fog.

"At 11.40 a.m. the second and third battleships and cruiser divisions formed up in column to starboard of the transports and escorting vessels. At noon the course was altered to the north-east, and at 12.23 the first battleship squadron steamed to eight cables to starboard. At 1.30 the Japanese scouts appeared, evidently with the intention of uniting with the main force.

Four Japanese battleships then came in sight, followed by the cruisers Yakumo, Nisshin, Kasuga, Iwate, Izdumi, Adzuma, and others; in all eighteen ships steaming at full speed towards us. The fog had by this time lifted a little. Our squadron fire keeping a straight course whilst the transports separated themselves from the main body, steaming at a distance of fifteen cables. The speed of the squadron was ten knots.

The fight began at a distance of from 60 to 70 cable lengths gradually diminishing to 30. While yet a long distance in front of us the enemy altered their formation and steamed towards the Russians. The fire of the Japanese was very accurate. They literally rained shells on our ships, concentrating their fire in the first instance on the Admiral's flagship in the van, and employing both torpedoes and shells. Their fire destroyed all the deck fitting, and caused a series of fires. Then began the thunder of the heavy guns.

The first of our ships to be damaged were the Oslyabya and the Kniaz Suvaroff. The first two Japanese shells caused a leak in the Oslyabya, and the water poured in with such force that she heeled over and at about three o'clock turned turtle. The Kniaz Suvaroff left the line. It was apparent that she failed to answer her helm. She continued, however, to keep up a vigorous fire.

"It was at this time that Admiral Rojdestvensky, who had been wounded as the commencement of the battle, transferred himself and his staff to the torpedo-boat destroyer Bulny. The Borodino now took the Kniaz Suvaroff's position at the head of line, and vigorously continued the fight. At four o'clock in the afternoon the Sissoy Veliky left the line but continued to fight while extinguishing a great fire which had broken out on board. She assisted the cruisers at the tail of the line by cannonading the small Japanese cruisers, which were endeavouring to cut off our transports and cruisers. After the fire had been put out she resumed her position in the line.

The fleet then manœuvred to shield the Kniaz Suvaroff. At five o'clock a great fire broke out on the Imperatore Alexander III, which was observed to be listing. She immediately left the line, but after extinguishing the fire righted here if and took up her former position. At eight o'clock the battleship signalled that she was in distress. At the beginning of the battle the Kasagi, Chitose Nittaka Tsu-shima, Akitsu-shima, Sima, and two cruisers of the Matsushima type had separated from the Japanese fleet with the intention of bombarding our transports, which were thrown into confusion in endeavouring to avoid the cross fire. The fire of the Japanese cruisers was directed against the transports and the Svietlana, Almaz, and Ural. The last named received a shot under the water-line, and left the line of battle. The lifeboats were launched on the approach of the Svietlana, which had also been damaged under the water-line, but continued to fight. The Dmitri, Donskoy and Vladimir Monomagh came several times to the help of the transports, and by their fire forced the Japanese to withdraw.

At about seven o'clock in the evening the position was as follows:—Our battle-ships were steaming parallel to the Japanese squadron firing to starboard, at their head the Borodino, on which smoke and flames were visible. To the left of the battleships advanced, but not quite on the same course, the Oleg, Aurora, Dmitri Donskoy, and Vladimir Monomakh, and to the left of them the transports, with the exception of the Kamchatka and Ural, with the Svietlana and the Almaz. Further to the left were the Jemchug, the Izumrud, and the torpedo-boats. No special damage was noticeable on any of these. The Svietlana alone seemed to list forward. Away to port and behind the Japanese second and third class cruisers were visible on the horizon thirty torpedo-boats. At ten minutes past seven the Borodino capsized and sank in three minutes.

"Just before sunset the Nikolai signalled to alter the course 23 points to the north-east. This course was kept by the fleet for half an hour. Then nine Japanese torpedo-boat destroyers were sighted ahead, and the battleships veered to starboard and the cruisers to port. The cruisers, following the example of the Oleg, which was leading, stopped, but the battleships held on and bombarded the Japanese battleships and torpedo-boat destroyers. The latter, which were hovering on the flanks of the fleet, suddenly darted off to port, with the object of overhauling the cruisers, of which the Oleg, under Admiral Enkvist, and the Aurora and Jemchug were steaming southwards. The other cruisers, however, held on their course to the north.

"After dark the Japanese turned their searchlights on us. The first torpedo attacks by their destroyers were already made, and a number of ships being observed to be on fire, the Admiral ordered the ships to proceed independently to Vladivostock.

THE SITUATION IN EUROPE.

"Reuter's" Paris correspondent says that at present it is more likely than ever that M. Rouvier will elect to become Foreign Minister himself. The question will be settled in two or three days. The majority of the newspapers agree that it is very probable that M. Rouvier will keep the portfolio of Foreign Affairs.

Various politicians such as MM. Marion, Clemenctel, Cochery, and Poincare, are suggested as successors to M. Rouvier as the Ministry of Finance.

The "Figaro" says that M. Rouvier at no time offered the portfolio of Foreign Affairs to M. Bourgeois. A temporary mission to Berlin was the sole subject of discussion at an interview which took place on Friday between MM. Rouvier and Bourgeois. The deputy of the Marne has declared that in present circumstances he does not feel justified in refusing any mission. The Premier and M. Bourgeois have not had another interview since Friday.

GREECE.

ASSASSINATION OF THE PREMIER.

As M. Delyannis, the venerable Greek Premier was entering the Chamber at Athens on June 13 he was stabbed in the abdomen by a man named Gheraklis.

M. Delyannis arrived at main entrance of the building in his private carriage, and as soon as the vehicle stopped a gentlemanly-looking man stepped forward, pretended to salute the Prime Minister, and then opened the carriage door for him. M. Delyannis was in the act of thanking the man for his courtesy when the miscreant drew a dagger which he had concealed in the breast-pocket of his coat and plunged it into the statesman's body. The blade penetrated very deeply into the abdomen, causing a terrible wound, from which blood flowed copiously. M. Delyannis was placed in an ambulance, and several doctors were soon in attendance. They at once saw that the wound was necessarily fatal. M. Delyannis soon lost consciousness, and he passed away within an hour of the infliction of the wound, without suffering. The assailant was arrested immediately after the commission of the dastardly deed, and the crowd which quickly gathered made an attempt to lynch him.

Cherakaris has been identified as an employe at a gambling den. He declared that he had killed M. Delyannis in revenge for the rigorous measures of repression adopted by the late Premier against gambling houses, which were recently all closed.

The demonstration of popular grief in Athens was said "Reuter," indescribable. A crowd of 20,000 persons followed the hearse on which the body of M. Delyannis was lying to the mortuary chapel, where a brief medical examination of the body was made, and thence to the late Premier's residence. Heart-rending scenes were witnessed there. Ministers, deputies, and many others in the crowd were in tears. The Ministers subsequently met at the house of the President of the Chamber in order to discuss the measures to be taken.

The Czar, who was at Tatoi at the time of the assassination, only received the news very late in the evening. His Majesty immediately returned to Athens and provisionally appointed M. Gounaraki's, Minister of Finance, to M. Delyanis's post of Minister of the Interior.

At a Council held at the Palace on the 14th the King begged the ministers to retain their portfolios, and expressed the hope that the great Delyannist Party would not be broken up. His Majesty added that it was for the Chamber to indicate its view as to the choice of its new leader, but as a mark of respect to M. Delyannis his Majesty would not appoint a new President of the Council until after the funeral.

THE STATE OF RUSSIA.

A CONSTITUTION GRANTED.

The "Eclair" publishes the following telegram of June 13 from St. Petersburg:—

Yesterday an Extraordinary Council was held in the evening at Tsarskoe Selo in connection with the internal reforms recently proposed by the Ministers MM. Yermoloff and Bulyghin. These reforms, which had been adopted in principle in March, were merely finally approved at yesterday's Council. The most essential reforms are:—

1. Institution of a representative assembly composed of members belonging to all classes, and endowed with legislative power.

2. The members of this assembly shall consist of one peasant, one citizen, one noble, and one merchant, per district, and of two citizens, two merchants and four nobles, per province, in addition to the members elected for each district. Each provincial committee will elect two members to the representative assembly.

3. All the laws of the empire will have to pass through this assembly, which shall have the right of taking any measure required in exceptional cases; but all resolutions of the assembly must be sanctioned by the Czar.

4. The assembly will have no right to discuss the Budget of the empire, which will continue to depend on the Council of Ministers and on the empire.

5. The Press laws will be considerably more liberal, the censorship being abolished. A certain number of laws relating to Press offences will be abolished.

6. Jews will be placed on a footing of equality with the representatives of other nationalities inhabiting the empire. All Jews will be allowed to inhabit the capital and to change their domicile freely. Up to the present this tolerance has only been shown to Jewish merchants.

7. Complete reform in Poland, which shall enjoy nearly all the privileges she possessed before 1863. The Polish and Russian languages shall be equally official. Poles shall have a right to hold all posts in the empire. No restrictions shall be placed any longer on the entrance of Poles and Jews into higher schools.

8. Similar reforms for Finland. Admission of Finnish as official language. The special Russian laws introduced into Finland by Alexander III. shall be abolished, and the Finnish Senate shall have much more absolute powers than at present.

9. Sweeping reforms are introduced in the Baltic provinces. The German, like the Russian, language will be official and the laws in force in the reign of Alexander II. will be restored.

The following are the reforms for the Caucasus: Progressive emancipation of the native inhabitants, abolition of indirect taxation, and a Governmental protectorate calculated to obviate racial conflicts.

11. Abolition of corporal punishment.

12. Grant of Government lands to peasants on very liberal terms, and institution of district banks to facilitate land purchase.

13. Compulsory education for all subjects of the Empire shall be provided by the Minister of Public Instruction. The Holy Synod schools managed by Popes are to be abolished.

14. Complete freedom of conscience for all subjects of the Empire without denominational distinctions. Each denomination to be allowed to have its own ministry and to build religious edifices.

15. Revision of the penal code and of all the laws of the Empire.

Kharkoff, June 10.—At the last meeting of the Economic Council of the province of Kharkoff a resolution was passed declaring that the Government was in a condition of absolute bankruptcy and had therefore no moral right to direct either the home or foreign affairs of the country. The council further urged the necessity of immediately summoning a representative assembly.

St. Petersburg June 12.—During a concert in the Paviovsk Gardens yesterday evening, while the orchestra was playing the duet "Glory to the Czar," from Glinka's opera "A Life for the Czar," someone in the audience shouted "Down with the Czar!" The audience rose in a body and a great tumult ensued, a portion of the audience repeating the cry, while others protested. The two factions came to blows, sticks and chairs being freely used. The mirrors and doors of the concert pavilion were broken. The demonstration was entirely unexpected and there were no police in the hall. An alarm was suddenly raised that the troops were coming, and the audience precipitately quitted the hall.

The Moscow correspondent of the "Standard" writes on June 9:—

The so-called "Union of Unions" has been formally joined by the Union of Peasants, and is known to have already extended to seven provinces. Sixty districts of the provinces of Moscow belong to the Union of Peasants. This far-reaching "Union of Unions" includes members of all the professional classes and their unions. The headquarters are at Moscow, where the delegates have drawn up representations on the state of the country. The terms are similar to, but more emphatic than the address of the united nobility the municipalities, and the Zemstvos. The delegates have decided that it is hopeless to further await the chance that the voice of the people will reach the throne, and that the time has come to act. The means proposed are:—First, a general strike of all the professional classes; refusal to give evidence on any political charges; the organisation everywhere of street demonstrations, meetings, and banquets, where the speakers can enforce the lessons of the war; and finally, the acceptance of the aid of the revolutionary party in outward manifestations of discontent. A lengthy resolution, embodying the principles of the "Union of Unions," states that, though the various organisations have not resorted to active measures before, they have tried scores of times, but in vain to make their representations heard by responsible administrators.

GOSSIP OF THE WEEK.

LONDON, June 16.

WILLS AND WONTS.

In case could place any reliance upon the rumours which afloat as to just what Japan demands in the of the war, and as precisely what refuse, to consider, in would be pretty obvious how the bust- to-end. Japan's demand need not be considered the irreducible minimum; Russia's offer to means the fixed maximum. The position, if it has been publicly described really be, could suggest a deadlock before negotiations open. But there is all this something which recalls the pictorial allegory adopted for the heading of the picturesque mind at The Hague Peace Conference.

A SAVING CLAUSE.

At first sight, nothing could look more forbidding and menacing than this design. The heading bristles with horrid bayonets and swords; bombs be ready, apparently; for the fuse or forthe hand of the lurker over. Cannon heavy enough to blow away civilisation from down the page, and rifles of the latest type complete the warlike picture. A very nice design for a Peace party! But the picture deserves closer attention. These enemies of war have their near fiances. There is the busiest of spiders working overtime at the points of the bayonets, weaving a web from steel to steel. The swords lie dormant, and await the coming of the smith who will fashion them into ploughshares; there is something wrong with the rifles, the cannon are rifled, and the dove of peace, meditatively nibbling—if dove may be said to nibble—an olive branch sits quite at home on the muzzle of the biggest gun in the picture.

UNWANTED PEACE.

The Russian Red Book has let us into a secret or two as to how matters were conducted prior to the outbreak of war. One feature is there which may or may not have more behind it than appears on the surface. The only undated telegram in the whole bunch is said to have been held back by the Japanese telegraph until after the outbreak of war. Obviously the suggestion here is that to the end it was Japan who really forced on the fighting. But we have all too familiar with the tricks by which modern wars are brought about seriously to believe that Russian diplomatists would tell us. On the Franco-Prussian war, Bismarck told Lord Augustus Loftus that 'Great Britain ought to have forbidden France to enter on the war.' Yet the man who said this was himself the very one who brought on the war, by a trick of which he was heartily ashamed to boast.

MATCH-MAKING.

When Prince Charles Anthony of Hohenzollern withdrew the candidature of his son for the throne of Spain, Bismarck was pretty well in despair, because this killed, as he thought, the chance of war with France. And he resigned the Prussian Premiership and the Federal Chancellorship and was sitting dismally at dinner with Moltke and Roon, when there arrived from the King of Prussia the historic telegram from Ems. It showed how Count Benedetti had importuned the King to sign an undertaking that a Hohenzollern never should, with his consent aspire again to the throne of Spain; how the King had refused any such pledge, and had explained that he could not see the Ambassador again on the subject. The three men went over the telegram in despair. The whole business was going to fizzle out to a pacific solution and there would be no war. Roon and Moltke were so affected by this undesired turn of affairs that they could not proceed with their meal, but drew back from the table in disgust.

HISTORY'S HEAVY VILLAIN.

The next move lay with Bismarck. Is our sighing statesman in such an efficient state that we can enter into a war with the highest hopes of success he asked. The reply was reassuring. Well, then said Bismarck, you can now calmly go on with your dinner, and forthwith he sat down at a table and prepared for the Press and for the German Ambassador a version of the King's telegram which made it appear that the King had refused to receive the French Ambassador, again not merely on the specific question, but at all. This he laid before the other two. Ah said Moltke now it has a different ring. It sounded like a parley now it is like a flourish in answer to a challenge. I may live to lead our armies in such a war then the devil may come directly afterwards and fetch away this old carcass of mine. And next day the King had some back to Berlin, and the people were clamouring for a national war while all Paris was Bismarck's back was shrieking A Berlin!

THE TOMB OF STEEL.

The submarine craft which has carried the majority of its crew to their deaths is the latest style of vessel which has from time to time occupied the minds of men ever since navigation first was. Without going back to antiquity and the submersible craft described as having been employed by the ancients, a record may be found of a voyage taken by James I. in the Thames by means of a craft so seeking the power automatically to dive beneath the surface, and one worked by paddles at Portsmouth Harbour through the second century. More lately, unsuccessfully employed against the English ships in American waters in 1813, and of dozens of trials with vessels of various shapes and attributes with that environment was made during the last century from the time of the genius Fulton down to our own day.

THRONES TO LET.

It is a privilege to live in this age of rapid and brilliant events. It is one of infinite romance. Greatest tumble down, and crowns are offered like a fairy tale. The words are Disraeli's, and the occasion the offering of the crown of Greece to the father of the present Lord Derby. Perhaps we shall see a similar spectacle in Norway, where they are hunting for a successor to the monarch whom they have coolly deposed. But not every one desires to bear the weight of a crown upon his brows. The late Duke of Edinburgh was actually offered the crown of Greece but declined the overture. Then they sought out Lord Derby. "It is a dazzling inheritance for the house of Stanley," said Disraeli, "but they are not an imaginative race, and I doubt they will prefer Knowsley to the Parthenon, and Lancashire to the Attic Plains. . . . I think he ought to take the crown, but he will not. Had I his youth, I would not hesitate even with the perdition in the distance."

MANY INVITATIONS.

Seeing that King Oscar protests against his deposition, his successor upon the throne of Norway, if it come to that, may expect an unpleasant time, and hope to escape a little difficulty in finding the name. Prince Alexander of Battenberg resigned the throne of Bulgaria. Russia had a man ready in the Prince of Mingrelia, but him the Bulgarians would not have. They wanted Prince Waldemar of Denmark, but the position did not appeal to that prince. Those follow of the stranger sight. A deputation from Bulgaria set out less with the idea of winning sympathy with and support for, Bulgarian independence than of finding a Royal, upon which to place the Bulgarian crown. To practically every capital in Europe they went, to each to meet with refusal, until they came to Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. He jumped at it. And that same Saxe-Coburg has its place in the list of the declined-with-thanks. First King Edward then the Duke of Connaught on behalf of himself and his heir, had gently but firmly to decline the honour of ruling there. That is how it comes about that the young Duke of Albany has succeeded into Duke of Saxe-Coburg.

WIGS ON THE GREEN.

The military review which the King of Spain was present last week lacked incidents unplanned and in that particular differed from one held at Wyhaven, which Bismarck, with his Sovereign was present. The Chancellor having more regard for personal comfort than appearance, donned for the occasion a huge wig beneath his helmet. As he was galloping in the Royal procession, a general whispered to him, "Your wig is slipping down on one side Mein Herr." Bismarck set spurs to his horse, galloped on to the carriage which had in readiness to carry him home, pulled off helmet and wig, and threw the latter into the carriage, while the Royalties looked on in silent amazement. What a diplomatist manœuvre you executed with that wig of yours was subsequently the rather angry comment of the future William I of Germany.

MIRACULOUS LORE.

If the exhibition of the Marchioness of Salisbury and Mr. Chaplain to have only come off again upon the market had been effected long ago, the people of Leeds would have been saved a panic. For a fortune was reported to lay eggs upon which were inscribed the words Christ is coming. Great numbers of people visited the mystic hencoop, and were convinced that the day of judgment was at hand. A record in conversions was achieved in the district. But there was a sequel. Watchers discovered that the extraordinary message was written with corrosive ink upon the egg, which was then reinserted in the body of the hen, to be again produced by that much misused bird.

THE VALUE OF POSITION.

They say that is better to be born lucky than rich. It comes to the same thing often if you happen to be a Scotsman prominent and popular at a time when men not of straw are making their will. Prince von Bulow's windfall of £275,000 is far from being an isolated example of golden luck. His forefather had the merits of being rested in a distant way to the beneficiaries, but Herr Babel, the Socialist leader, much to the discomfiture of supporters of the Kaiser is today enjoying the interest on a round £20,000 bequeathed to him by some unknown admirer to enable him the better to carry on his propaganda. The Kaiser could hardly complain he is one of the luckiest men in the world in the matter of legacies. It has become a fashion in Germany to leave him money and estates. Thus quite recently two legacies of £150,000 each have fallen to him, besides chattels, estates and annuities enough to make an ordinary man of considerable property owned.

Worry and Anxiety

almost inevitably lead to a weakened and impoverished condition of the nervous systems These are forms of mental and nervous fatigue, and indicate that the nervous system is unequal to the demands made upon it by business responsibilities, social obligations, or professional duties. Such feelings give urgent and emphatic warning that the entire nervous system has become feebled, either as a consequence of nervous overstrain or owing to imperfect nutrition, resulting from physical illness or disorder.

Nervous Debility

of which worry and anxiety are such distressing symptoms, demands special treatment the nature of which is easily understood. If the body be weak it shows that fitting nourishment is required, and the same is equally true if the nervous system be weakened. It needs proper nutrition.

But how seldom the exhausted nervous system receives the right treatment. In many cases stimulants are resorted to, which give merely fictitious and temporary strength to the nerves, but actually leave them more weakened and worn out than before. If the nervous system be exhausted it really requires a remedy that will assist the nervous system to assimilate nourishment from the ordinary food, and will at the same time supply the vital nerve elements which are lost under the strain of overwork. Such a remedy is found in

Bishop's Tonules

A Nerve Nutrient not a Stimulant.

Bishop's Tonules are a thoroughly scientific preparation, free from harmful drugs and act directly upon the nerves, improving their nutrition, building up the worn away tissues, and restoring the impoverished nervous system to full health and vigour.

To understand how and why Bishop's Tonules do this it must be borne in mind that in nervous disorders generally the nerve and brain substance is worn away faster than it can be replaced. The nerves also lack the power to extract from the food taken the elements which they have lost, and until they can do this there can be no improvement in their exhausted condition.

The principal of these nervous disorders are as follows: Nervous and General Debility or Impaired Vitality, indicated by Lassitude, Fatigue, Want of Mental and Physical Energy, Weakened Will Power, Inability for Sustained Mental Effort, Irritability and Brain Fag, Nervous Exhaustion, Indecision and Lack of Confidence and "Pluck," Mental Depression, Worry and Anxiety, Forebodings, Morbidity and Melancholy, Neurasthenia, or a worn-out condition of the Nervous System generally, characterised by Headache, Vertigo, Muscular and Nervous Prostration, and Diminished Mental Powers.

There is no pretence that Bishop's Tonules do anything magical or extraordinary They simply supply those elements that are lacking, and supply them in such a form that they can be taken up easily and naturally by the nerves. Hence it is only reasonable to expect nerve restoration where they are used.

Obviously this takes time, just as an ill-nourished body cannot be built up in a day; but the result of a continued course of treatment by Bishop's Tonules will be the restoration of the nervous system to perfect health and strength.

The effects of the Tonule treatment may not be apparent immediately, but after a short time there is an improvement in the appetite, the assimilation of food is promoted, the liver stimulated, and the flow of bile increased. The various organs of the body all show improved activity and the building up of the tissues is hastened. The eyes grow brighter and the complexion more healthy. There is a tendency for thin subjects to gain flesh, while soft and flabby flesh becomes firm. In addition to all these evidences of the power of Bishop's Tonules, the symptoms of nervous debility and exhaustion gradually disappear, and it is only a question of time as to how long it will take for the whole nervous system to be restored to full strength.

Bishop's Tonules

A Fortnight's Treatment 2/9.

A letter has just been received from a gentleman in Hampshire in the following terms:—"I have now gone through a fortnight's course of Bishop's Tonules with great benefit. I was suffering from nevousness and depression, and these have almost disappeared, especially the latter. I took one Tonule with each of my three meals."

Bishop's Tonules are supplied in vials containing a fortnight's treatment, made by Alfred Bishop (Limited), Spelman-street, Mile End New Town, London, supplies may be obtained from your chemist or drug store for 2s. 9d. Alfred Bishop (Limited) are Manufacturing Chemists only, and have but one address.

Note

There are two points we wish specially to emphasise. One is that it is supremely needful to delay commencing the treatment with Bishop's Tonules if you recognise the symptoms arising from nervous [illegible]

THE QUESTION now-a-days among Smokers is, Why should Vafiadis' Cigarettes be so largely distributed?

The answer is not far to seek.

It is because Vafiadis having had a life-long experience in Tobacco knows what is suitable for this peculiar climate of India, and it also is because their only intention is to satisfy their thousands of Customers by guaranteeing a new consignment of their Cigarettes every fourteen days.

To the above facts it is due that their Cigarettes are so highly praised and smoked by the Elite, and are pronounced by connoisseurs to be superior to all others.

Liqueur Exquisite, Tonic Digestive and Efficacious

BENEDICTINE

Possessing most Powerful Germ-killing Properties.

The BENEDICTINE liqueur is beneficial to health owing to its spirituous foundation being composed only of eau-de-vie (brandies) of the very purest quality.

Its principal characteristics may be summed up as follows:—

Distinctness of taste, richness of flavour and a delicious bouquet improving with age.

Moreover, the fact has never been disputed, that when diluted with cold water, the liqueur is possessed of great ANTIAPOPLECTIC (against apoplexy, sudden loss of sense and voluntary motions), APERIENT (slow purgative), DIGESTIVE and ANTISPASMODIC (against convulsions, qualities). REFRESHES and STRENGTHENS the nerveus and tired brain marvellously, and works as a perfect boon to invalids and a blessing combined with luxury to mankind.

Many celebrated doctors and literary men both in France and other countries have given the liqueur the brilliant testimony of their appreciation, as may be seen by the following letters:—

* * * * Those of my readers who have confidence in my culinary recommendations, and I trust they are many, will do well to note that I prefer BENEDICTINE to all other liqueurs.

ALEXANDER DUMAS.

* * * * At a time when the luxuries of the table are sought after on all sides, I do not hesitate to acknowledge and recommend BENEDICTINE as the queen of liqueurs, now to be seen on any table. It is found and appreciated alike in restaurants, in private families, and on the tables of princes.

H. DE PENE.

* * * * We place BENEDICTINE upon our tables for its excellent flavour and delicate perfume without stopping to say that this dainty is a powerful specific, a liqueur most efficacious for promoting digestion and the regular circulation of the blood.

TIMOTHEE TRIMM.

LIQUEUR BENEDICTINE.—Among the liqueurs created or manufactured by the monks of France, the Benedictine from a hygienic point of view occupies the foremost rank. It is not only an exquisite and savory beverage for persons in good health, but in cases of illness or recovery it is equally beneficial. It may be used to advantage in all cases where Malaga, Madeira, Sherry, &c., are recommended. The Benedictine is remarkable for its agreeable taste, and for its really salutary effects as a stomachic; and it is principally on this account that the liqueur should bear the motto "Moritur qui non utitur."

Extract from the "Gazette Medicale."

After meals we know of nothing more agreeable than a small glass or two of BENEDICTINE. It perfumes the breath, delights the palate, promotes digestion, and is a powerful aid to an inactive or overloaded stomach. During an epidemic, and for combating the evil effects of an impure atmosphere, its curative action is indispensable. At the beginning of last autumn we had occasion to appreciate the full value of this liqueur, and we are now happy to give it our highest praise.

Dr. MALLET, M.D.

We place all our confidence in the hygienic properties of BENEDICTINE. Invalids and those who suffer from diseases of the stomach, stoppages of the chest, headache, congestion of brain, etc., and who cannot take other liqueurs, can safely make BENEDICTINE their favourite drink as a finish to their meals.

Dr. ACHILLE PEQUEUR, M.D.

I consider your excellent liqueur invaluable to the old who so frequently suffer from indigestion and attacks of biliousness which often prove fatal. BENEDICTINE has long been well known to me, and it was with great readiness that I ordered one religious and my head resident doctor to administer it as a cordial according to your directions.

"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of DR. The value of 'hydro-carbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognized; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the most benefit. The Oil of DR. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognized."

ATTEMPTED MURDER OF A EUROPEAN.

CONVICTION OF THE ACCUSED.

THE trial of the following case was resumed before, the Hon. Mr. Justice Chandavarkar and the same Common Jury at the third Criminal Sessions of the High Court yesterday.

Victor O'Brien Gomez, a European Portuguese aged 22, was charged with attempting to commit the murder of Gerald E. C. Henderson, aged 19, with a revolver, on 31st May last, at the Byculla Railway station, where both of them were employed as ticket collectors. Mr. Basil Lang, instructed by Mr. Nicholson, Public Prosecutor, appeared for the Crown. Mr. Colah defended the accused.

Mr. Colah, continuing his address for the defence, said that the whole case for the prosecution was a concoction of the Railway Police. Why should the accused have created the foolish alibi through the Nicholsons? His waking up the whole house at an untimely hour in the morning was a rotten story which no man in his senses would care to believe. Mr. Lang had put the question in his address why should all these people including the Nicholsons have conspired to put the accused in jail on such a serious charge? In answering the question they should look to the class of people concerned in the case. Most of the witnesses including the lads Nicholson, were connected with the railway. Taking the socks theory to be correct, these should have got torn over a metalled road of about half a mile in length, and not got simply mud-stained. The only straightforward, honest, decent witness was Nock; the evidence of the officers of the Bombay Police was similarly truthful. Superintendent Nolan and Inspector Brewin, who belonged to the Police, which he considered to be the finest police in the world, tried their best to find out the missing weapon, the revolver, but without success. How could the accused then be charged with being in possession of a revolver for the purpose of committing the offence?

Waking up Henderson, and signifying to him the intention to murder, seemed to him to be quite a funny way of committing murder. Counsel wished that murders were committed in this fashion, so that people might get ample time to obtain assistance, and get themselves out of the difficulty. If the jury had any doubt in their mind on all or any of these points, they should give the accused the benefit of it.

His Lordship summed-up. He said the case for the prosecution had been laid before them by Mr. Lang with fairness and great clearness. On the other hand, Mr. Colah had defended the interests of his client with industry and zeal. It was for the jury now to make up their minds on the evidence on the record, as put forward by counsel. The duty of the Judge, under these circumstances, was to point out to them the salient points in the evidence, and by doing so, assist the jury in arriving at a correct conclusion on the case. As to the law, they had to to take it from the Judge; as to the facts in the evidence, the jury were the judges of it. On the evidence, if they were satisfied that the accused did attempt to commit murder, they should hold him guilty of it; if they rejected certain portions of the evidence and accepted the others, and concluded that there was an attempt to cause grievous hurt, then they should say so. If they held that there was only a struggle between the complainant and the accused, and that the accused only attempted to cause hurt, they might give their opinion that way. The Judge then shortly presented to the jury the case for the prosecution, pointing out to them side by side the aspects of the defence as brought out in the across-examination of the witnesses. He pointed out to the jury that apart from what had taken place between the complainant and the accused previous to the main incident on the night of the 30th May, the jury, in order to simplify the whole matter, should attempt to solve the following three important questions in the case:—(1). Was the accused Gomez at the station that night and during the morning up to 3 30 a. m.; (2). If he was there, was there a scuffle between him and the complainant Gerald Henderson; and lastly, the most important of these questions was (3). If there was a scuffle did the accused go to the complainant with a revolver in his hand and threaten to shoot him, and did he ultimately fire at him?

The jury retired to consider their verdict. After half an hour's absence they returned to the Court, and the foreman announced that by a majority of seven to two they have found the accused guilty of an attempt to cause bodily hurt. The two jurors who formed the minority, were in favour of a verdict of guilty on the major charge of attempt to commit murder.

Mr. Colah urged that the accused had already passed one month in jail, which fact should go in mitigation of his punishment.

Mr. Lang said he did not wish to urge anything on the question of the accused's punishment.

The Judge; I accept the verdict of the majority, and sentence the accused to six months' rigorous imprisonment.

Prisoner was thereupon removed from the dock.

ALLEGED FRAUD ON THE G. I. P. RAILWAY.

Walter John Carroll, a European, aged 24 was tried before his Lordship and a common jury on charges of falsification of accounts, cheating and conspiring to defraud the G. I. P. Railway Company in which he had been employed as a sub-platelayer, otherwise designated as Sub Permanent Way Inspector. Mr. Young, instructed by Mr. Bowen, of Messrs. Little and Company appeared for the prosecution. Mr. Rustom Wadia, instructed by Mr. Athavale, pleader, defended.

Mr. Young, in opening the case for the prosecution, said that accused's residence was at the Kulhar station in the Indian Midland section, and it was his duty occasionally, and in this particular case very frequently indeed, to attend to the muster of coolies and other people employed in the various gangs of the section committed to his charge. Ordinarily speaking, his subordinate called the 'Timekeepr" would usually go to those gangs three or four times a week in a trolly and note the attendance or absence, as the case might be, of the members constituting the gangs. In books that were designated field books. Over each of the gangs was a man. Straight lines in the books showed the men were present at work; oval marks, on the other hand, indicated those who were absent. These marks were put before the names of the workmen whose names were written down in the field-books. In this instance, the timekeeper, Jamshedji Dorabji Sanjana, was a novice, employed only a few weeks before November last. A time-keeper, in order to take the muster was entitled to go on a trolly; but he was not allowed to avail himself of the privilege. He, therefore could not go by himself unless he went in company of the accused on the trolly The musters taken were entered up in a time-sheet and a pay-list was made out on the strength of it. The pay-list might roughly be described as a summary of the field book. In the pay-lists were entered, in addition several other particulars, the moneys due to the persons composing the gang. In these, the prosecution contended the accused, in conspiracy with others had entered up names of persons who, as a matter of fact, had not done any work for the Company, and he had given credit to persons for doing more work than they actually had done, and thus caused the Company to put forth more money in the pay-lists than the recipients were actually entitled to. Unless a conspiracy existed between the Sub Inspector, the timekeeper, and the pay-clerk everything would not come right in these affairs; but matters would become very easy indeed if the pay-clerk was in the conspiracy. This affair of the November pay-list was nipped in the bud as it were and came to an end abruptly owing to the pay-clerk who was actually to make the payments not being there, and therefore, there was no evidence to show that he was a member of the conspiracy. In the circumstances he could only ask the jury to infer whether the forming of a conspiracy, as he had suggested, was credible or not on the strength of the evidence he would adduce before them. The men were called before the pay-clerk, and they would have been paid by him according to the pay-sheets, had he not been in the conspiracy, hence the profits of the coterie would have come to naught. A secret record of the falsification was made, and it would be produced in Court. The secret record showed the true state of things, as regards the employment of labour in the gangs, and payments would be made to the men of the gangs in accordance with it, and not in accordance with the fabricated; pay-lists. Accused was called away to Barkhera; Cabral, another member of the conspiracy, was dead; Sanjana was helpless; Ramchandra, the new pay-clerk, stated that he had taken over charge and he would make the payments to the gangs the next morning. Sanjana was helpless and he tried to corrupt Ramchandra and offered him at first Rs. 50 and then raised the offer to Rs. 100. He also took out from his pocket a document containing the numbers of men, for each man had a particular number. Those against whose numbers the words "extras" were written, were not employed at all on the work. Additional work was credited to some of the labourers, and the difference in the actual payments to be made to the labourers of the gang according to, the actual work performed by them, and the charges made in the pay list, was the profit of the members of the conspiracy. Ramchandra declined to be a party to the fraud; he declined the bribe offered to him, and refused to give up the secret document. The Resident Engineer was informed of the matter, and he made the payments according to the true record of the labour. Sanjana had absconded and a warrant was taken out against him on the charge of attempting to bribe a public servant, for the G. I. P. Railway was now a Government Department.

Evidence was called and the trial adjourned till 10 o'clock this morning.

At an examination at Devonport recently for dockyard apprentices, the candidates were asked to "explain carefully Henry VII's title to the Tudor Throne;" and the "salient points of the policy of Cardinal Wolsey" to "describe the development of the English Navy under the Tudors;" and to "write an essay on wireless telegraphy, or steam turbines or the discovery of America."

Japanese opinion shows distrust of Russian sincerity, and urges extreme caution at every step, the Press unanimously deprecating an armistice at this stage. A St. Petersburg correspondent says that while Russians are immensely grateful to President Roosevelt for the hope of deliverance from an unpopular war, they consider that peace, if concluded without the counsel of the nation, must strengthen the hands of the reactionaries.
